THE LEAD BANANA: A B-17 FLYING FORTRESS

She sits on her hard stand enshrouded in fog,
Her towering tail fin almost lost in the smog,
Knock kneed weary wings drooping,
Looking all the world like the ugly duckling.

Tin benders patch the rips in her skin,
Scars from her late trip to Berlin.
There were Frankfurt, Merzburg, Munich, and many more,
Do you wonder that she looks weary and sore?

Yes, she does look sickly and kind'a wan
As she squats on her stand in the grey light of dawn,
But, wait till you see this old bird in the air,
She'll turn into a majestic and graceful swan.

She's carried her crew into flak filled skies
That promised deadly encounters, and someone dies,
Proudly she's burst through the treacherous shroud
Surging ever upward toward sunlit cloud.

Her place in the group formation today
Is her usual spot, number four in the low.
Some pilots have said in a half hearted way,
"Let's leave her home, she's too old and too slow."

But a hundred missions she has under her belt,
Countless hostile blows on her skin she has felt.

Fire, flak, fighters, and bone chilling air,
None has deterred her from the enemy's lair.

Over the I.P. and holding steady,
Bombardier sighting and at the ready,
"Bombs away!" and upward she lunges,
Wheeling 'round, and then downward she plunges.

Shuddering and shaking as she makes the round,
Nothing will stop her, she's homeward bound,
All guns blazing, and you can bet all your script,
No yellow nosed demon will get her this trip.

Little brothers appear in the sky,
They waggle their wings as they zip by,
Her crew, dazed, spent and numb with cold,
Lads in their teens suddenly forty years old.

Into the pattern she'll gracefully glide,
All four turning, wings spread out in pride,
Gear down and locked, flaps coming lower,
No red flares to add to the shower.

Taxiing to her stand, her engines she'll preen,
Just look at her, she's no "hanger queen."
Clearing her stacks, she'll relax with a shudder,
Heave a sigh of relief as ground lock finds rudder.

Once more she rests, weary wings drooping,
Knocked kneed and looking like the ugly duckling.
But, don't get misty eyed and put away your bandana,
The great fortress you see, is the "Lead Banana".

Yes, she's back from her war, holed like a tin can,
But mister, she's carried her load,
And brought home many a fine young man,
Who bravely went forth to KEEP THE SHOW ON THE ROAD.

DUES . . . DUES . . . DUES . . . As you can see from our Financial Report of 1988, we did not do too well on dues for that year. We now have over 1000 members. To run an organization such as this, requires close cooperation and financial support. To get out Newsletters, the cost of mailing, printing and xeroxing, etc. requires a considerable amount of capital. Without funds, we cannot continue to operate.

Our main source of income is the payment of dues. Without support from Dues, we cannot survive. We no longer can afford to carry those 384thrs who do not support us. Delinquent notices will soon be sent out to those we haven't heard from since?

A dues Statement Form for 1989 is enclosed with this Newsletter. If you have already sent in your dues, please note so on the form and return it to us. It will also give us your correct address.

If you have sent in your dues since the November 1988 Newsletter, your name is listed below. . . no names were listed in the March 1989 Newsletter. So, if you haven't sent in your dues, please do so. . .

JOHN MACH passes away. . . John Mach of Savannah, Georgia recently passed away. John was the brother of Teresa Nelson, wife of "Buck" Nelson (NY) who has also died. Buck was our "Tail End Charlie". He earned this distinction by being the last man to be on the last B17 of the war that dropped the last bombs on the last target.

John Mach conceived the original theme for the design of the Stained Glass Window. . . he gave this to the Group as a contribution. It was then turned over to Brian Thomas, O. B. E. who is a fellow of the British Society of Master Glass Painters, who then designed the Window. The Stained Glass Window was then crafted painted and assembled by Chapel Studios of England.

Thanks John for the Window. . . the 384th BG will miss you. . .
