35-277 The forerunner of the Flying Fortress. Delivered to US Air Corps January 1937 and completed first test flight Oct 15; to 49BS/2BG at Langley, Va. January 1938 for affiliation; on 4/2/39 flew to Chile with medical supplies after earthquake; took part in secret bombing test in the Canal Zone; photo-recon trip to Galapagos Is 9/5/40; late 1940 to Duncan Fd, Fl., for removal of armament; to San Antonio for conversion to transport aircraft and transferred to 6AF in March 1943; designated XC-105 and assigned 20th Troop Carrier Squadron, at Howard Fd, CZ on 6/5/43. Fondly known as 'Grandpappy' carried all sorts of cargo 35-278 around Caribbean airfields, before assigned to Panama Air Depot 18/12/44; in late 1945 was dismantled and taken to Diablo Dump, Albrook Fd, CZ., where it was buried.

=====

Model 299 The first real Fortress. Ordered 26/9/34. First flew 28/7/35 from Boeing Fd with Les Tower pilot. Many other test flights completed, then following October crashed at Wright Fd killing pilot Major Pete Hill. Other engineers etc taken to hospital, where observer Les Tower died later of his injuries. Fault found to be control surfaces still locked when taking off.

Approaching Reno the weather worsened and Lt Leo Walker, decided to land at Reno and wait for conditions to improve. Two days later the weather relented, and flight resumed, but 20 minutes after take off the radio failed, static made contact with Reno impossible. Then a supercharger failed as an attempt was being mde to climb above the weather. At this point the aircraft began to break up in the turbulence and most of the crew bailed out successfully, it crashed on Tell's Peak, near Georgetown, Cal. 2/11/41. It was eventually salvaged, while later photographs on this rarely visited site show early USAAC markings.

Pilot Reseigh severely wounded and cp Dave Rautio knocked unconscious by shrapnel; ice cold air revived him whose oxygen mask, goggles and flak helmet torn away; instruments were all out, while blood from Reseigh's head wounds, shattered left arm and leg splattered everything, plus the plexi-glass over the navigator Maryan Winicki's astrodome was shattered. Four hours later frostbitten and nearly blinded by the open cockpit Rautio skidded in at an US base on the English Channel coast. En route home engineer Nushy extinguished the fire, bombardier Paul Smith closed the bomb bay doors, and along with radio op Leon Kaplan, ball turret man Herb Penner and waist gunner Erling Anderson hand cranked the wheels down, and they made it back, just missing out on colliding with another ship; Sal 2 SAD 16/10/44.
